Search for Meaning by Young Adult Women Who Had Suicide Attempted (Henny E. Wirawan, M Hum, Psi.); Bachelor Degree in Psychology, Tarumanagara University (79 pages + R1-R3)

The aim of this research is to find the meaning of life from young adult women who had suicide attempted. Based on Frankl's Meaning of Life Theory, meaning of life can be found by experience from occupation, other human, God and the meaning of the pain itself. This research used qualitative method and open interview with 3 subjects with age vary 20-30 years old. This research found that women who had suicide attempted once were truly found their meaning of life mostly from their partners and experience with God. Meanwhile the other women who had suicide attempted for more than once just had temporary meaning of life from their partners and experience with God.
