

ABSTRACT

Ahmad Firmansya

Resiliency to Young Adulthood Male That Suffering Cancer Lymphoma (Henny E. Wirawan, M. Hum., Psi., QIA) the Program of Strata One, Psychological Faculty of Tarumanagara (80 pages, P1-P4).

Every people that suffering cancer lymphoma will experience negative impact physiologically or psychologically, those impact to delart every activity of man. Therefore needed an ability to defend facing complicated situation. Resiliency is an ability to coping impact from those complicated situation. The purpose this study is knowing viewing of resiliency of young adulthood that suffering cancer lymphoma. Collecting data from this study using interview method namley indepth interview, that following 3 peoples. The time of collecting data started from 14 November 2008 until 18 November 2009. Based theory of Grotberg (1999) about characteristic resiliency, third subject have resiliency characteristic, although yet fulfill entire criterion.

Keyword : Resiliency, Cancer, and Young Adulthood.