

ABSTRACT

Nirmala Nilasaroya Parahita (705080112)

The Relationship between Adolescent Perceptions on Parental Conflict With The Needs of Aggression (Study on Students of The SMK X, South Jakarta); Miniwaty Halim M.Psi. & Dra Ninawati M.M. Undergraduate Program in Psychology, Tarumanagara University, (i-xiv; 45 pages, R1-R3, Appdx 1-28)

The aim of the research is to know the relationship between adolescent perception on parental conflict with the needs of aggression. Data collection conducted in April 2012 and this study included 400 students of SMKN "X" in South Jakarta and using probability sampling techniques. Research conducted in SMKN "X" because SMKN "X" just that allow researchers to retrieve data. Measuring instrument used consists of two measuring devices, namely perceptions of adolescents to parental conflict and needs aggression. Measuring instrument adolescent perceptions of parental conflict created by the researcher, while the measure of aggression needs (needs for aggression) were obtained from the research institute of Psychology, University Tarumanagara. Based on tests conducted correlation values obtained $r = 0.349$ (low), $p = 0.000 < 0.05$, can be seen therefore that there is a positive and significant relationship between perceptions of conflict between the parents with the needs of aggression. Though the results of the data, one of the data are not normally distributed data is the data of perception of parental conflict are being made to the correlation test of the hypothesis on the primary data analysis is the use of Spearman correlation.

Keywords: perception, adolescent, parental conflict, and needs for aggression